RUN FOR SARAH

5K Run/Walk

October 7th

Sarah Cordill Jones is a Princeton Senior High School and Bluefield College Alum and a teacher at Graham Intermediate School, who is battling cancer for the third time in her young life. She was first diagnosed with Ewing's Sarcoma in December of 2011. She began chemotherapy shortly after and beat this cancer for the first time. The cancer, however, came with a cost. Her tumor was wrapped around her sciatic nerve and to remove the tumor completely, the doctors had to remove a portion of her sciatic nerve which caused her to lose feeling from her knee down in her right leg. After surgery, she continued to fight to get her strength back and prove the doctors wrong by being able to walk without a cane. In July 2015, devastation hit again when the doctors found cancerous spots on her lungs. The doctors removed the spots later that month and she began chemotherapy treatments again. By March 2016, Sarah had beat cancer for the second time. Unfortunately, on June 27, 2017, after having her annual scans done, the doctors found spots on her lungs again. She began chemotherapy on July 10, and has to travel to Nashville and Johnson City to her doctor appointments every other week. She will be unable to work until after Thanksgiving. Help us show Sarah and her family how much we as a community support and care about her and her fight against cancer. Help us make this event a huge success by donating what you can! All proceeds from the race will go to the Sarah Jones.
